Water Travel 1974 - 70ft - Traditional Stern Narrowbeam boat lying at Outlying Marina

Kingsley, originally named Bolsover was built by Water Travel at Cut End, Atherley in 1974. At the time Water Travel were well known for building quality traditional style boats, Kingsley was built on the lines of a small Northwich, this in the 70's was a rare thing to do. When built Kingsley had a Masonite top, the present owner had this replaced in 1991 by Lorenz in Manchester, at the same time a fore cabin was added, this at the moment is valuable un-fitted space. There is a current hull survey to view + previous surveys. This boat has not travelled far and shows very little sign of wear in the places you would expect to see it. The present owner is an experienced boater and engineer who has added many very practical touches, making this a good prospect for living on. Great character boat, which I have known since the day it was launched.
